

Steven and Vicki are at loggerheads several times in this story, but in the earliest example the situation is too urgent for Steven to stop and take action: he has to go out and rescue the Doctor from the Greek camp, and there isn't time for him to deal with Vicki's argumentative disobedience in the appropriate way; that will have to await a better opportunity. This comes early in Part 3, when they are imprisoned and have an argument about which of them is responsible. Unfortunately, they are arguing thru the connecting window of adjacent cells... So, in the Spanking Adventures version, they've been put in the same cell together when Vicki tells Steven it's all his fault for calling her Vicki, and Steven retorts that she called him Steven first. As on television, Vicki retorts that he should have realized she would have made friends with the locals: she does know how to look after herself.

'Oh, do you?' says Steven. 'Well, you may be able to get around the Trojans, but now I'm going to give you something you won't be able to talk your way out of.' And so saying, he grabs Vicki and puts her over his knee. Up comes her long classical dress, revealing her turquoise flowered panties trimmed with white lace. Up goes Steven's hand and smacks down on her exposed bottom. Vicki squeals at the pain and indignity, and goes on squealing as the spanking continues.

Suddenly the cell door flies open. It is Troilus, come to see Vicki. Only he didn't expect to see the seat of her panties across Steven's lap! He springs forward, grabs Steven's wrist as he raises his hand to spank again, and socks Steven in the jaw. Steven falls back dazed and a wailing Vicki tumbles to the floor, landing uncomfortably on her soundly spanked bottom.

'I can see we should have put you in separate cells,' says Troilus. He tells Steven sharply to get back against the wall, and Steven obeys. (It's at this moment that he sees the Cyclops out of the window, which happened a little earlier in the televised version of the scene.) Troilus leads Vicki to the cell door, unlocks it and moves her to the adjacent cell. 'He won't be able to get you in here,' he promises; and when Vicki seems a little less than grateful to be parted from her friend, Troilus worries that Steven might possibly be something more than a friend... His conversation with Vicki continues on its televised course... except that, in this version, Vicki can't sit down to eat her meal!